Dr Sunil Anand's contribution in the field of teaching homeopathy at an individual level at two prime medical colleges in Mumbai and Pune and internationally, has helped shape his role as an endearing teacher. He joined as a junior lecturer and over a period of fifteen years of teaching and conducting lectures for under-graduates as well as postgraduates, has risen to the designation of an Associate Professor.

He is artful in encouraging the family to pursue good quality homeopathic care while making them aware of the finer nuances of homeopathic management. He has a close working relationship with conventional doctors of all areas of specialty. Many of them consult him for treatment for themselves along with their families, as well as refer patients to him.

His contribution towards the cure and prevention of dengue fever, has been much acclaimed, as a PRANA team initiative, and helped save many lives and relieve several others of their suffering.

Testimonials :

Dr. Sunil Anand is an exceptional homeopath. I have been under his care for the past 2 years and never have I felt more supported health-wise. I have seen many other homeopaths including some leaders in the field. But I have trusted none as much as I trust him. I used to resort to prescribing for myself after a few months due to lack of results (I am a homeopath, so the temptation is high). With Dr. Sunil, I felt improvement right from the start of treatment and have not felt the urge to prescribe myself at all.

Dr. Sunil has helped me during my pregnancy that was complicated by depression and gestational diabetes. He prescribed for me during labor when things were not moving and I became overly exhausted. I gave birth very quickly after that at home as I had always wanted. Dr. Sunil has been there for me throughout the post-partum period. Recently my second pregnancy turned into a loss and I decided to let nature do the work. The remedies Dr. Sunil prescribed allowed me to grieve and let go and the miscarriage took place at home, peacefully. The sadness went away very fast.

I highly recommend to anyone seeking to regain health to consult with Dr. Sunil Anand. He has extensive experience, tremendous skill and a true spirit of service. I have been in contact with him countless times and always he was prompt to reply and to help us with a remedy. I feel very grateful that he is our family homeopath.

Around the time we heard about Dr Anand, we had reached the nadir of our long 3 year struggle with our son's challenges due to chronic GI issues, anxiety/panic attacks and severe impairment from autism. We had gradually learned to live with his autism and developmental delays, however the worst would hit when he had unending weeks of severe pain coupled with unexplained anxiety/panic attacks. The only thing that would alleviate his pain and crying was driving non-stop in a car 24 hours of a day. Not only was it tiring to drive hundreds of miles and have no time to eat or sleep, it was gut-wrenching to see our little boy in this state.

After a detailed intake, Dr. Anand prescribed a unique remedy for my son. Under his care, my son's anxiety attacks ceased, and his bowel consistency improved significantly. Till a few months ago, this was simply unimaginable! Even more importantly, the journey to get to this point was as sweet as the result itself. Dr. Anand was very responsive any time we needed his help to deal with an acute or other issues, responding within minutes or atmost a few hours, even over the weekends, which in times of need was precious for us. He was also open to our questions and communicative about why we were preceding on a certain course of action, which enabled us to stick it through the tough periods.

We are eternally grateful to have found the gem of a person and homeopath that Dr Anand is. And, we are once again hopeful that perhaps some day homeopathy will be able to heal our son's autism as well.
